

INTERNET WRITING SOURCES

The Internet now provides vast resources for learning more about writing, grammar, punctuation, spelling, etc. Google.com is a great place to start. Go to www.google.com and enter the following words: writing grammar web sites

Below are just a few sites that will appear. Each site includes many, many links to other sites.

- Check for topics on pull-down menus
- Check for links
- Look for the ones that apply best to your question or topic

If you have a specific question, you can enter that into google too. If you need to write an essay with a topic sentence, you could enter: "how to write a topic sentence" (without the quote marks). Perhaps you'd like to know more about outlining, then enter "how to outline a paper." You can copy and paste the following addresses into your browser.

Just a few sample sites:

http://www.studygs.net/bib_writing%20webs.htm

<http://owl.english.purdue.edu/>

<http://dictionary.reference.com/writing/>

<http://writing-program.uchicago.edu/resources/grammar.htm>

http://www.troyst.edu/writingcenter/handouts/helpful_websites.html

For ESL students:

<http://www.utoronto.ca/writing/vocab.html>

<http://humanities.byu.edu/elc/teacher/sectionone/aboutlanguageq4.html>

Learning to check up on yourself when you don't have a tutor: revising and editing:
<http://slc.berkeley.edu/nns/l2writing/process/revise.htm>

Dave's ESL Cafe:

<http://www.pacificnet.net/~sperling/eslcafe.html>

On-line quizzes, etymology, idioms, pronunciation, spelling, vocabulary:
<http://eleaston.com/>